16 MILLIONS APPROPRIATED FOR PARK ROADS

Improvements On Battlefield Included In Projects Approved Thursday.

WILL PUBLISH ITEMS TODAY

Uncle Sam's cabinet board, selected to recommend various building and improvement projects as a cure for unemployment, on Thursday approved projects that will cost approximately one billion dollars and will put thousands of idle hands to work.

Included in the approval of projects is an appropriation of fifty million dollars to foster the program sponsored by the war department which includes the expenditure of $183,500 on the Gettysburg battlefield. The entire cost to be borne by the government as part of the national recovery act.

In the fifty million dollar appropriation for war department projects is one item of $16,000,000 for national park roads. This particular item includes work on the battlefield. However it is not known whether the entire $183,500 battlefield project has been approved.

Appropriations for various other contemplated projects were withheld following the board meeting.

Army Requests Slashed
Secretary of Interior Ickes, chairman of the board and public works administrator, declined to give any idea of the amount involved, saying he did not want to announce any figures and then have to back-track on them if the president should change that list. Projects totaling about $50,000,000 were recommended by the war department, but were understood to have been cut drastically.

They are probably due for further reduction by the president, as Mr. Ickes said he had trimmed the federal allocation of $65,000,000 to be made public today.

Mr. Ickes said approval of the regional divisions cleared the way to appointment by President Roosevelt early next week of the regional administrators and state advisory boards, which will do most of the disbursing of about $1,000,000,000 to states and local governmental units.

$400,000,000 For Roads
This part of the program has been held up pending the regional set-up and the administration has been concentrating on getting the federal program going.

In addition to approving the $65,000,000 for federal projects, the president has allocated $400,000,000 to public roads and $238,000,000 to naval construction, while the board has approved a plan for dividing $50,000,000 among road projects in federal parks, national forests and Indian reservations.

New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey are placed in the second region. An administrator will be appointed by the president and an advisory board of three members from each state will assist in directing the work.

LIONS, ROTES PLAN PICNIC

Joint Meeting Of Two Civic Clubs Will Be Held At Caledonia, Monday.

Everything was in readiness today for the joint meeting of the Rotary and Lions' clubs at Caledonia park next Monday evening at 6 o'clock until—

H. B. Bender, of the Rotary club, and Professor Ira Y. Baker, of the Lions' club, discovered they did not have a set of rules covering the marble tournament which will be one of the features of the joint outing.

They first called upon C. Ross Shuman, president of the Lions' club, to see if he had a book of rules. "I never heard of rules for a marble tournament," the Lions' club executive said.

"We must have rules," Bender and Baker both asserted. "We want this game to be played strictly on the up and up and according to Hoyle." Finally, one of the trio had the happy inspiration to remember that a marble contest was held in Gettysburg several years ago, with rules and regulations to prevent "hunching" and other forms of "skulduggery." James Dickson, Springs avenue, it was recalled, was entered in the local tournament and an effort was made to get in touch with him. Dickson's father, J. Allen Dickson, told the inquirers that he believed he had a set of rules covering marble tournaments and would be glad to furnish them to the two chairmen for their tournament.

Both Bender and Baker heaved sighs of relief when that perplexing problem was finally solved. During the afternoon, a golf tournament between Rotarians and Lions will be staged on the Graeffenburg Inn course, and other contests include horseshoes, baseball and miniature golf at Log Cabin Inn.

Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock at Log Cabin Inn.

W. E. C. To Meet Again July 27

London, July 14 (AP)—The steering committee of the world economic conference decided today to reset the world-wide parley on July 27.

All committees were notified to have their complete reports ready by next Friday.

The full bureau meeting will be conducted the following Tuesday and the final plenary session will be held the 27th.

It is understood that great care will be taken to avoid a note of finality at the plenary session. There will be a clear indication that the conference is expected to resume at a future date. This attitude would permit continuation of the tariff truce which was for the duration of the parley and which many nations desire not to terminate.

STATE ORDERS INSURANCE FOR RELIEF LABOR

Townships And Boroughs Must Provide Insurance For Talbot Workers.

COST IS FIXED AT 25C. A WEEK

All townships and boroughs in Adams county receiving the benefit of relief work projects must provide compensation insurance at the rate of 25 cents per week for each relief worker in their particular district.

This information is contained in a letter addressed to all county committee workers of the Talbot relief board from the central board here.

The recent act passed by the state legislature, providing for such insurance for all relief workers was signed by the governor on June 3 and the insurance is effective from that date.

Peak Was 2,000
At one time approximately 2,000 relief workers were on duty in the county. At the present time the June report indicated 764 relief workers with approximately 125 of that number, non-family workers. In Gettysburg the total relief employees was 101 for June.

The state act provides that all townships and boroughs where relief workers are working must provide for the compensation insurance. It was explained that where a community receives several thousand dollars in free work projects that particular community should be willing to pay 25 cents per week for compensation insurance.

One Adams county community estimated that it had received approximately $70,000 in free work, estimated at the base pay of labor, material, etc.

The act does not specify where the insurance shall be placed. It may be placed with the state workman's compensation fund or with any reputable insurance company.

Institutions
The letter addressed to the various relief committee workers explaining the insurance follows:

Under provision of Act 328 signed by the governor June 3, 1933, it becomes necessary for all townships, boroughs or other organizations that are receiving the benefit of labor under the Talbot relief fund to provide compensation insurance.

They will be required to pay compensation insurance at the rate of 25 cents per week for each individual on the payroll regardless of the number of days he works each week. In other words all organizations providing employment to individuals who are paid by food orders under the Talbot relief fund will have to bear the expense of 25 cents per week premium for individuals. Therefore, it is the duty of every committeeman to see that all townships, boroughs or organizations that are providing employment are advised of this change immediately as this law became effective the day the governor put his signature to the bill.

If you have been carrying insurance on the men who have been working on your relief projects it is our understanding that that will be satisfactory. Enclosed are copies of the forms to be used. If more are needed they can be secured at the county office. Work may begin as soon as the enclosed papers are filled and returned. Please send in all three copies and we will return one with the approval of the county board.

I want to take this opportunity again of expressing my personal appreciation of your loyal cooperation. We want to keep Adams county at the head of the list.

Middletown, July 14 (AP).—Lieutenant R. M. Arrington, of Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich., burned to death in the crash of his plane last Thursday in an apple orchard about half a mile from the Middletown air intermediate depot.

Lieutenant Arrington had stopped at the depot to refuel on a cross-country flight in a pursuit plane from Miller field, Staten Island, N. Y.

Men thrashing in a barn several hundred feet away said it rebounded twenty-five feet into a tree, then fell back and burst into flames as the engine burst loose and sailed across a fence about 25 feet into cemetery.

FORMER DANCER WINS COURT BATTLE FOR DOG

Chicago, July 14.—Irene Castle McLaughlin, once international famous as a dancer and now a Lake Forest society matron, fought a successful court battle Thursday in behalf of a mongrel dog and its owner, 12-year-old Arthur Koestner.

Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel issued a temporary injunction restraining city dog pound officials from turning over "Spotty," the mongrel pet, to any scientific institution or medical school for purpose of vivisection.

The dog, once a ward of Mrs. McLaughlin's "Orphans of the Storm," a haven for stray animals, was given by her to young Koestner last February, but "Spotty" ran afoul of the dog catcher and was headed for the vivisection table when Mrs. McLaughlin engaged a lawyer and saved the day for pet and devoted owner.

DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE CHUM

15-year-old Youth Loses Life In Heroic Attempt To Rescue Another.

Baltimore, July 14.—In an effort to rescue a distressed companion from a pool in the Patapsco river near Orange Grove, David Hess, 15, who was spending a vacation at the Woodland Country home, operated by the Associated Jewish charities, was drowned about 4:15 p. m. Thursday.

He and Leon Milstein, 12, were members of a group of about fifteen boys who had been on a hike and had stopped for a swim at the pool, according to the police.

Tried To Help Friend
Seeing Leon in difficulty, it was said, David jumped in after him. Immediately his struggling friend clasped his arms about young Hess' neck.

Their supervisor, Dr. Philip L. Block, then dived in and pulled the Milstein boy out of the pool—but in the meantime young Hess, exhausted by the struggle, went under.

Dr. Block, according to the police, tried repeatedly to find the body, without success.

Receives Body

Then Robert B. Simmons, who lives on South Rolling road, Catonsville, came along, and hearing the boys' cries, joined in the rescue attempts. He brought up the body about ten minutes after the youth had sunk.

In the meantime, the Ellicott City police had been called. They brought resuscitation apparatus and worked over the body for an hour and a half, but their efforts were vain.

David was the son of Mrs. Carrie Hess, and was a student at School No. 6. His father was killed some years ago in a railroad accident.

BOY'S CAPTORS SEEK NEW AIDE

Demand O'Connell Family Submit New List Of Intermediaries At Once.

Albany, July 14 (AP).—Daniel P. O'Connell, uncle of the kidnapped John J., Jr., received a letter from the kidnapers today ordering the family to submit a new list of intermediaries to be published in three New York papers, the Sun, Journal and World-Telegram.

The list of go-betweens, the third offered by the family, has been sent to the papers.

The letter received today was signed by the kidnaped youth. The family established the authenticity of the signature.

The first letter from the abductors demanding $250,000 received last Saturday bore young John's signature. Two other letters from the kidnap band did not carry his name.

Today's letter, the fourth the family has received, was not made public. It was said however that no reference was made to the boy's condition nor was there any reference to the ransom.

O'Connell, scion of the political family, was kidnapped a week ago today.

A new club of the federal government was swung today against the kidnapers of young O'Connell. The office of the United States attorney of the northern district of New York state said he had ordered an investigation of the three notes sent through the mail by the young man's abductors to his uncles, Ed and Dan, democratic czars of Albany county.

Abductors Of Banker Send 2 More Notes

Alton, Ill., July 14 (AP).—Two notes demanding ransom for August Luer, 77-year-old Alton banker, have been received by Luer's family, it was announced here today. Agents for the family said neither of the notes bore Luer's handwriting.

The family agents, O. S. Capp and Lawrence Keller, Jr., said they would insist that any note from the kidnapers bear a few lines of Luer's handwriting and be signed by him before they would recognize the note as genuine.

The agents would not say how the notes were received or give any description of them.

The truck crashed into the automobile as the former rounded a curve from the Tamaqua highway. It was driven by James O'Neill, of Philadelphia, who told state highway patrolmen he is employed by William MacDowell, of that city. He is being held in jail in default of $2,000 bail.

Uncle Sam Plans New Laws To Wage War Against Gunmen

Washington, July 14 (AP).—To strengthen the power of the federal government in its attempt to exterminate racketeers and kidnapers, the administration is drawing up a comprehensive legislative program for enactment by the next session of congress.

In making this known, Homer S. Cummings, attorney-general, also advocated the relatives and friends of kidnapped persons make available immediately to federal authorities all the information at their disposal.

Gives Three-Point Program
At his semi-weekly press conference, Thursday, he urged that the following three-point program be followed in order that there might be no avoidable delay in apprehending the criminals:

1. Communicate immediately the fact of the kidnapping to the nearest official of the justice department.

GERMANY CALLS CHURCH BALLOT

Various Church Factions Will Settle Issue At Polls July 23.

Berlin, July 14 (AP).—General church elections were ordered Thursday for July 23 to place Protestantism's fate directly in the hands of individual church members.

Announcement of the calling of the elections came simultaneously with revelation by a close friend of Rev. Friederich von Bodelschwingh, Evangelical reichsbishop, that all church commissioners appointed by federal or state governments would be removed today. The number includes Ludwig Mueller, who is commissary head of the Evangelical church union.

The election will not only comprise a referendum on a new church constitution but a ballot on delegates to the national synod and members of the local church boards. The synod in turn will elect a reichsbishop.

Test of Strength Looks
Hence it will prove a real test of strength for the German Christians as well as the Von Bodelschwingh followers provided campaign facilities are equally available to both factions.

The election decision contrasted sharply with the demand of the Nazi German Christians that no popular ballot should be taken, but that reorganization of the church should be ordered and executed from the top.

The Nazi church group, which opposed the election of Dr. von Bodelschwingh late in May and has claimed that 80 per cent of church officials from elders up should be Nazis, sponsored the drawing up this week of the new Protestant constitution.

GUNMEN KILL POLICE GUARD

Philadelphia, July 14 (AP).—Three robbers shot to death a policeman and stole a $6,720 payroll he was guarding today in the factory office of the Allied Kid company, near Fifth and Huntingdon streets.

The policeman, Charles Stockberger, 50, went down under a shower of bullets as the gunmen rushed in. He had no time to draw his pistol.

The robbers apparently trailed an automobile carrying Stockberger from a bank where they obtained and two employees of the company the money.

The killing and holdup were executed so quickly that no one got a good look at the men. The policeman had been on duty 22 years.

Balbo and His Daring Fliers Reach Shediad, N. B.

General Balbo and his fliers reached Montreal today.

Shediad, N. B., July 14 (AP).—The Italian air armada led by General Italo Balbo hopped off from here today for Montreal on the next stage of its flight to Chicago.

Shediad, N. B., July 14 (AP).—General Balbo and his squadron of twenty-four Italian seaplanes bound for the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago arrived here late Thursday, completing a flight of 800 miles from Cartwright, Labrador, the fifth leg in the largest long-distance mass air movement in history.

The armada started its take-off from Cartwright, where it arrived late Wednesday following the most hazardous stage of its trip—the 1,500-mile North Atlantic crossing from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Labrador—at 8:20 a. m., eastern standard time. The last of the groups of three got away at 8:55 a. m.

Balbo Pilots Lead Plane
Sweeping in from the north in close formation, the first group of three arrived at 4:30 p. m., Atlantic daylight time (2:30 p. m., eastern standard time). General Balbo, the Italian air minister, was piloting the leading plane. By 4:58 p. m. all the planes had arrived and were stretched across Shediad bay.

CASHTOWN NINE HERE SATURDAY

Local National Pastimers Hope To Repeat Win Over West Enders.

Only one league game faces the Gettysburg firemen's nine this week-end, Cashtown coming here Saturday afternoon. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The local nine has dropped two out of three contests in the race for second half honors. Last Saturday Cashtown fell victim to the slants of Ross Sheely and it is likely the southpaw ace will try to repeat tomorrow.

Cashtown at present is grouped with McSherrystown and Arendtsville in second place, closely pressing the league-leading New Oxford team. Manager Dale Bream is expected to delegate himself to the mound for Saturday's tilt, holding Jake Starnier in reserve. Starnier was roughly treated by local batsmen last week and will be used only in the relief role.

New Oxford Leader

New Oxford, sporting a record of two wins in as many games, plays two important games over the week-end, Saturday afternoon Bendersville will be met at Bendersville and on Sunday afternoon McSherrystown will be met on the New Oxford diamond. Two victories for Manager McCadden's tribe will go far in establishing New Oxford as probable second half champions.

Fairfield goes to McSherrystown full of hope of winning another contest. Last week the upper countians pulled a big surprise by dishing out an 8-6 defeat to McSherrystown and are eager to repeat.

Showing evidence of regaining much of its vaunted slugging power, Arendtsville journeys to Centennial for a game Saturday. Carl Kane's warriors were a distinct disappointment the first half but are now on a winning streak which may wind up with a championship.

The playoff for the first half title between Gettysburg and McSherrystown seems as far off as ever. McSherrystown has refused to play in the evenings during the week while the teams are unable to get together on arranging for games on Saturdays or Sundays. It is expected that league officials will intervene and fix dates for the three-game series.

The Rev. Mr. Dunlap will serve as supply pastor on Sunday, July 23; the Rev. Mr. West, Sunday, July 23; the Rev. Mr. Yost, Sunday, August 6; the Rev. Mr. Kammerer, Sunday, August 13; the Rev. Mr. Bower, Sunday, August 20, and the Rev. Mr. Creager, Sunday, August 27.

Webster Kohlhaas, Paul Shatto and Russel Ulrich have been appointed by Harvey S. Bogar, president of the church council, to select the new pastor.

2 Wives Ordered to Pay Husbnds Alimony Under New Illinois Law

Chicago, July 14.—Judge Joseph Sabath in superior court Thursday afternoon rendered the first and the second decision in Illinois under the new Graham law, which went into effect at midnight and which makes women liable to payment for alimony in justifiable cases. The judge has previously been noted for his caustic comments to women alimony seekers who, he frequently declared, forced him under the old laws to make them parasites.

The first case was that of Mrs. Kunegunde Koska, who operates a farm on the shores of Wolf lake and who petitioned the court to restrain her husband from stealing ducks and chickens.

"Since they agreed to separate," Koska's attorney, James Putnam, told Judge Sabath, "the husband has been living in a barn. He has been stealing his own ducks and chickens. It was that or starve."

"Three dollars and fifty cents per week to be paid by Mrs. Koska," ruled the judge, "and half a dozen fresh eggs and a quart of fresh milk to be left daily at the barn door until the divorce has been obtained and the property settled."

Judge Sabath next heard Harold Kettell, an unemployed accountant, who brought suit against Mrs. Grace Kettell, an employed stenographer, seeking divorce on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Kettell appeared smartly clad in white silk. Kettell was shabby and his shoes were as good as heelless. He testified that his wife had left him after four years of marriage, taking with her $3,500 of savings and the household furniture.

By the World Forgot

By Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: George Baneroff has hurried to Nicholas Boyd's apartment immediately after his return from Germany, a disappointed man because the operation he has undergone has not removed the scar that ruined his movie career. George tells Nicholas she loves him; Nicholas reminds her that he is married, but finally confesses that he cares for George. Meanwhile Bernie Boyd, Nicholas' wife, has decided to attach herself to George's wealthy stepfather, to her string of admirers.

Chapter 41

BERNIE'S CONQUEST

Bernie's hand touched Bishop's coat-sleeve again.

"Now, your wife, of course, is quite different. I do admire her so. You are a most fortunate man."

He moved a little, squaring his shoulders with a sort of weariness. "In the course of my life, which is a fairly long one," he said thoughtfully, "I have made the interesting discovery that all people appear to be happy and fortunate until one knows them well, and then the cupboard door opens—perhaps only a trifle—and the skeletons peep out. No doubt you have noticed that."

"I have; indeed, I have," Bernie murmured. She was rather superstitious, and the mention of skeletons made her shiver.

"I suppose none of us are really happy!" she murmured.

Bishop's grave mouth twisted into a smile.

"You are an exceedingly observant woman," he said.

Bernie's eyelids fluttered.

"I suppose to look at me," she said with a pathetic note, "people would say that I am perfectly happy and contented." She waited for a comment, but Bishop remained silent, and the long lashes swept upwards again, revealing her starry eyes. "But I am not. Life has been a big struggle."

"One can hardly imagine so, with a husband so famous," Bishop said. Bernie sighed. "Poor Nicholas! It's too sad. I really do not know what will become of him. Since his terrible accident he seems to have changed so much. I am afraid we shall never be able to live together again."

"You amaze me," Bishop said. "It is quite true," Bernie insisted sorrowfully. "He left America without a word to me. I was nearly beside myself."

"Naturally."

"You are so understanding," she murmured.

There was a little silence, then Bishop said, "Fortunately divorce is comparatively easy in your country."

"In my country, yes, but Nicholas is an Englishman, and it rather complicates matters."

"Otherwise, of course, you would seek your freedom," Bishop urged softly.

The pretty outlines of Bernie's mouth hardened.

"It would need a lot of consideration," she said. "There are so many complications, and I should hate people to think that I had deserted him just when he was in trouble."

"Surely nobody could think that?"

"I am afraid so. Of course I married when I was terribly young—little more than a child."

"A charming child, I am sure," Bishop said courteously. "And, that being so, don't you think it will be a thousand pities for you to remain tied to a man you no longer care for?"

"Why do you want me to divorce him?" she asked slowly.

Bishop's weary eyes seemed to open a little, and their usual sombreness was lit by a sudden flash.

"Supposing that is the reward which I hesitated to ask of you," he said.

For three days George managed to be almost happy; she had much confidence in Nicholas Boyd, now she knew that he cared for her. She was still a little afraid to use the word "loved."

It was the fourth day after her meeting with Nicholas that Clifford Asher called at the hotel. George had not seen him for some time, and she felt a little shy as she waited for him to come up to Evelyn's sitting room.

"I thought I was never going to see you again," she said.

His eyes scanned her face unsmilingly.

"I've come to say goodbye," he said.

"Goodbye!" George's brown eyes dilated. "Why, where are you going?"

"I've had an offer to go to South America, my uncle's firm. It means better prospects. I go next week."

She paled a little.

"And you never told me," she said reproachfully.

"I did not think you would be interested."

There was a moment's silence, then he broke out, "Come with me, George. It's quite a decent job, and it would be such fun, you and I together, and I want you so frightfully."

"I—can't."

"Why not? You don't belong to anyone else. You never had a real home. Nobody wants you as much as I do."

"I don't love you."

"You've never given yourself a chance to love me. Let's get married and take the risk."

Her sweet eyes met his troubled frankness.

"But I love someone else—I told you so."

"You said he was married."

"So he is," George said helplessly.

ly; she felt a little cold sensation round her heart.

Clifford smiled; she seemed such a child.

"Well then," he said gently. "What's the use of waiting?"

"Something may happen," George said.

"And if it doesn't?"

She shook her head, and he said impatiently, "Are you going to waste your whole life hoping that the impossible may happen?"

"That's not a very kind thing to say."

He looked away from her.

"I sail on Friday week; if you change your mind you know where I am to be found."

George felt sudden tears in her eyes, and seeing them he urged again passionately. "Oh George, can't you?"

"Clifford dear, I wish I could."

And in another moment he had gone.

Another knock at the door—"Please Miss can you see Miss Taylor?"

George was grateful for the distraction; Nelly was better than nobody to talk to, and just now she dreaded being left with her own thoughts.

Nelly rushed in breathless and excited; she looked happier and more contented than George had ever seen her.

"I can't stay a minute," she said. "I've got an afternoon off, for once, and I'm meeting a friend," she giggled. "I've got a new young man," she said proudly. "Quite nice he is too. Of course he may not mean anything, but there's always hope isn't there?"

"I hope he does," George said fervently.

Nelly shrugged her shoulders.

"Well, it helps pass the time," she said as if the affair were of no importance. "And I'm not expecting too much. I've had some before. But that isn't what I came to tell you."

She hesitated, then said, "Miss Boyd's got a new admirer running after her."

"Has she?" George was not particularly interested.

"It's your step-father."

"Bishop!" George laughed. "I don't believe you."

"It's true. He's down at the studio every day, and he takes her out to lunch too. Sends her flowers, cartloads of them, and all sorts of presents. She isn't half pleased I can tell you."

"I don't believe you," George said again.

"All right." Nelly was inclined to be offended. "Ask him if you don't believe me."

"But he's married," George gasped, and then realized the futility of the argument; Nicholas also was married.

Nelly said, "Pooh! the married ones are always the worst. And he and your mother aren't too sweet on each other, you take it from me. I've heard all sorts of things since I've been in this job. What's she going to Scotland alone for I should like to know?"

George flushed; it was very distasteful to hear her own people spoken of by Nelly in such terms of familiarity.

"Anyway I'm sure you're wrong about Bishop," she said positively. "I know he wouldn't do a thing like that."

Funny that she felt more anxious to defend Bishop than to defend her own mother.

Nelly laughed. "If you don't choose to believe me it's no use saying any more; perhaps you won't believe something else I'm going to tell you."

"What is it?"

"I expect you know. Nicholas Boyd's going away tonight."

Like the man who said he'd never eaten spinach because he was afraid if he ate some he might like it and he hated it—so with milk and some people.

Many people believe they cannot drink milk.

This is mostly psychic and generally means they do not like milk.

Milk has appropriately been referred to as a bargain in food values.

A dollar will buy more protein in the form of milk than in the form of meat.

When it is considered the unusual manner in which milk supplements the cheaper proteins, such as those of grains and vegetables, it is seen that it is the most economical source of protein.

A generally accepted rule calls for a quart of milk a day for each child and at least a pint for the adult.

There is no better food for the growing child than milk.

With this appreciation for the economical and food value of milk it is suggested the housewife procure sufficient milk, including milk products such as cream and cheese, if used, and then divide her allowance for food into three approximately equal parts—one for fruits and vegetables, one for cereal, bread and butter, and one for meat, eggs, sweets and miscellaneous.

Milk has never been accorded its adequate place in the American dietary.

Milk is mankind's manna.

Roast Beef and Browned Potatoes

5 pound rib roast; 2 tablespoons flour; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon paprika; ½ cup water; 6 peeled potatoes.

Place roast in roasting pan. Sprinkle with ½ the salt, the paprika and flour. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven in uncovered pan. Add water, cover with lid and bake 50 minutes. Add potatoes, sprinkle them with remaining salt and roast 45 minutes. If "well done" beef is desired roast 20 minutes more. Turn potatoes several times to allow even browning.

After removing roast and potatoes from pan, make gravy by adding 3 tablespoons of flour mixed with ½ cup of water to meat stock, boil 2 minutes. If gravy is too thick add more water to pan during cooking of gravy.

Fruit Sherbet

1 cup sugar; 1 cup orange juice; 1/3 cup lemon juice; 1 cup grape juice; 1½ cups milk.

Mix sugar and fruit juices, slowly add milk, pour into tray in mechanical refrigerator. Remove pan twice during first hour and beat well each time. This beating aids in preventing the mixture from crystallizing.

The sherbet may be frozen by the regular freezer method.

Sponge Cake

6 egg yolks; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup pastry flour; 1 teaspoon cream of tartar; 6 egg whites, beaten; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon lemon extract.

Beat yolks, lightly fold in rest of ingredients. Pour into ungreased pan, bake one hour in slow oven.

SEEKS P. MS. IN CIVIL SERVICE

President Roosevelt Wants Postmasters To Be Placed In New Class.

Washington, July 14 (AP).—The placing of all postmasters under civil service was asked Wednesday by President Roosevelt as he signed an executive order changing the age limit and residence requirements of new appointees.

Publication of the order was regarded as signaling a rush of patronage appointments from the white house within the next few days. A long list of names for jobs ranging from postmasters to collectors of internal revenue and United States attorneys has been prepared by Postmaster General Farley, the patronage dispenser.

Before the executive order was signed, Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen his newly created executive council to guide industrial recovery had decided to take federal employees for the emergency agencies, such as the home loan bank board, public works and others, from the ranks of civil service worker who have been displaced in the administration's economy drive. There are more than 8000 of these dismissed employees.

The president asserted, however, that the thousands who were "blanketed in" the civil service by executive order under republican rule are not to be selected for re-employment. He has no objection, on the other hand, to these workers taking examinations and seeking re-employment on civil service lists on the same basis as those chosen through the merit system.

A complete survey of the postmastership situation has been made by Joseph C. O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general, including salaries paid and time devoted to the service by postmasters of the first, second and third classes which are not now under civil service.

Scott W. Phillips, civil war veteran of Grants Pass, Oregon, in his eighty-sixth year, recently landed a 30-pound salmon without assistance.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Going Up.—J. E. (Bill) Mehaffie was this week awarded his commission as lieutenant in the American aviation corps. He has been in training for several months.

At Big Convention.—The following members of the local order of Elks are attending the Elk national convention at Atlantic City: Edgar L. Deardorff, Ray M. Hoffman,
John K. Lindemood, P. B. Bruner, C.
T. Lower, H. E. Riddiemoer, D. M.
Sheely, J. H. Weikert.

Brandt-Pfeffer.—Miss Mary
Pfeffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Charles H. Pfeffer, of Steinwehr avenue, and Lieutenant Grover C.
Brandt, of Camp Colt, were married at four o'clock on the afternoon of July fifth, at Annapolis, Md., by Rev. H. F. Carl Haas, pastor of St.
Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church.
They returned to Gettysburg on Tuesday evening.

The bride is a graduate of Gettysburg high school in the class of 1915. She has been attending Gettysburg college and would have been graduated next June. Lieutenant Brandt's home is in El Paso, Texas.
He is attached to the Tank corps.

They will make their home at 142
East Middle street.

Dahr-Garretson.—A very pretty wedding took place at York Springs Lutheran parsonage on Monday, when Miss Esther Belle, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Blair Garretson, of Menallen township, was married to John William Dahr, of Dillsburg. The ring ceremony was used.

The bride has been one of Adams county's successful school teachers. She was beautifully gowned in blue taffeta with picture hat to harmonize.

Mr. and Mrs. Dahr have a host of friends who wish them a long and happy wedded life.

Wolfe-Cluck.—Miss Leila Mae
Cluck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Harvey Cluck, and Roy C. Wolf, son of George A. Wolf, both of near Gettysburg, were married on Saturday by Rev. J. B. Baker.

Useful Career Comes to Close.—
After an illness of less than a week,
Martin Winter, one of Gettysburg's most useful citizens, died at his home on Chambersburg street at 5:45 a. m. Friday. Death was caused by paralysis. He was in his 66th year.

Mr. Winter was a marked type of the self made man. Starting in his life with no financial means, earning his way through several schools, entering an ambitious business career, and launching projects which acquired foresight and faith, he accomplished results which will stand for many years as monuments to his courage and persistent effort for the betterment of the town.

He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winter and he was a native and life long resident of Gettysburg. He received his early education in the Catholic schools and then went to Westminster where he earned the money to pay

Read The Bible With Us Daily

They say, if a man put away his wife, and she go from him, and become another man's, shall he return unto her again? shall not that land be greatly polluted? but thou hast played the harlot with many lovers; yet return again to me, saith the Lord.

Lift up thine eyes unto the high places, and see where thou hast not been lain with. In the ways hast thou sat for them; as the Arabian in the wilderness; and thou hast polluted the land with thy whoredoms and with thy wickedness.

Therefore the showers have been withholden, and there hath been no latter rain; and thou hast hadst a whore's forehead, thou refusedst to be ashamed.

Wilt thou not from this time cry unto me, My father, thou art the guide of my youth?

Will he reserve his anger forever? Will he keep it to the end?
Behold, thou hast spoken and done evil things as thou couldst.
Jeremiah 3:1-5.

his way through a year of studies.
Following that he attended the Baltimore business college. Then he returned to Gettysburg. His father, Peter Winter, conducted a small bakery and confectionery store and the son continued this business for a time after the death of his father.

Later he took up real estate and insurance. For thirty-five years he had been successful as an insurance agent, representing a large number of companies and having a long list of patrons.

But his most noted success was in the line of real estate. His first large venture was the development of the northern part of town. In more recent years he developed the entire eastern end of town. Any enterprise which would benefit the commercial life in the town received his enthusiastic support.

Mr. Winter erected the building on Chambersburg street, in which he had his home and offices. He also built many houses on Lincoln avenue, North Washington street, and Broadway. With Hon. D. P. Mc-Pherson he erected the block of ten modern houses on North Stratton street.

In all these efforts, Mr. Winter showed a willingness to risk. He had faith in Gettysburg and its people, and his success proved that his faith was not misplaced.

Commissioned Major.—Announcement has been made that John R.
Scott has been commissioned "Judge Advocate, General Reserve army, with the rank of major." Unless a new army has been determined upon, Mr. Scott's commission is that of a major in the advocate general's department of the reserve corps.

Mr. Scott is principally known as the author of "The Colonel of the Red Hussars." He has also written other fiction and has been a member of the Adams county bar for a number of years, having been more or less active recently in equity practice.

Personal.—Mrs. George E. Stock,
Baltimore street, and Mr. and Mrs.
M. J. Flynn and family are spending several days in Washington, D. C.

Miss Grace Schroder and Miss Kathryn Seitzinger, of York, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Earl Deatrick, East Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ziegler, of Pittsburgh, announce the birth of a son. Mrs. Ziegler was formerly Miss Nettie Shultz.

Miss Anna Wisotzky, Chambersburg street, has gone to Pottsville for several days.

J. W. Kendelehr and family, West Middle street, have left on a motor trip to Glen Gardner, New Jersey.

Miss Bess Shriver, East Middle street, is spending some time in Philadelphia, Washington and New Jersey.

Mrs. William Furney, Carlisle street, has gone Chambersburg and Waynesboro to visit friends and relatives for several days.

Miss Elizabeth Sheads, who has been teaching school during the past term at Camden, New Jersey, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Shields, Stratton street.

Mrs. Schofield and Mrs. Schelling, of Baltimore, are spending some time at the home of Penrose Myers, near town.

Charles Lott, of Camp Devens, Ayer, Massachusetts, is spending a furlough with friends and relatives in and near town.

G. E. Miller, Jr., of Wilmington, is at his home on York street for a vacation of several days.

VACATION

Out in the open air I stroll,
Alone with my beleaguered soul,
And seek to find through walls of grime

And the oppressive tasks of time
A gateway out of which to go To beauties mortals ache to know.

Beyond the petty things of life,
The bickerings of selfish strife,
I long to pause awhile to rest
And give myself to what is best;

To set my poisoned spirit free
From all that halts and hinders me.

Moonlight and stars and silvered lake
Lure me old haunts to forsake;
To seek some crevice through the line

Which hems this battered soul of mine
And slip away, as if on wings,
From Time's confused and trivial things.

The soul of me would break away
From all that holds it fast by day
To dream and fancy and to share
An hour unstained by selfish care,
A prisoner, escaped and free,
Though soon I shall re-captured be.

Don't "Make Over" Child

Before Testifies Visitors

If you allow your children to come in for growing-up, "make over" don't make them the center of attraction.
It is embarrassing for them and for the outside visitors. Have them speak nicely to the visitors and then praise of some toothsome bit of refreshment. Do not discuss them before visitors. Children have a vague feeling that this is disloyal.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RESPONSIVE SENSIBILITIES

THE simpler we resolve the principles and standards by which we regulate our lives, the surer we are to find contentment and peace in our lives.

"Life," says William James, "is always worth living if we have responsive sensibilities."

The trouble with most of us is that we desire things utterly impossible of attainment by us, whereas we brush aside the simplest joys and opportunities that hover about our feet. We wish to grasp the exclusive and the "superb," rather than to handle and refine the low pay ore under our finger's grasp.

In the magic spell of solitude we learn how very incapable we are, yet at the same time how far from the simple laws of nature we have wandered. Those who inhabit the wild have few problems—yet they are exquisitely happy, as evidenced by their calls and songs and industry.

Most of us are all too blind to beauty—which is scattered everywhere.
The commonest things in nature are often the most significant in truth for us.

The artificiality of scores of people about us is evidenced every day of our lives. Seeking to drown their dullness and stupidity, they reach for the foolish and the inane, and often dissipate precious time and ability until it becomes dull to all response to the finer calls of life.

People with responsive sensibilities can be happy anywhere, for in every spot there are appeals that immediately register in their minds and touch their hearts.

Some of us think too much—or try to. It is a good thing, often, to get away from everything and everybody and go to some isolated spot and just look the brain and be still! Many a Doctor would like to be convinced that many of his patients could do this, for it would make new human beings of them.

Building Pennsylvania

BY LEO W. SHERIDAN

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

There was a depression in 1820 and production of pig iron in the United States dropped to 20,000 tons.

Dr. Charles Lukens of the Lukens Iron and Steel company, is believed to have manufactured the first rolled boiler plates in that year. The plates were 16 inches in diameter, three and four feet long between hoosings and were used by Stephenson on the first locomotive. Despite the depression, anthracite went into general use.

Economic conditions were improving in 1824 and seeking an outlet for the increasing boom production, Dr. Peter Schoenberger opened the Juniatia Iron Works in Pittsburgh.
He made bar iron, sheet iron, boiler iron and he cut nails. The whole country was interested in the first use of natural gas for illuminating purposes. A hotel in the village of Fredonia, near Lake Erie, in western New York, boasted the first lamp in America and everybody talked about it.

There was a vast increase in nail machines and factories in eastern Pennsylvania during 1825 and 1835.
Neighboring states also joined in the boom. Many New Englanders came into Pennsylvania seeking work.

There was great excitement in Pittsburgh in 1829—the first canal boat came in by way of the Ohio river and the Delaware canal. A short time later the first English made locomotive in America, was used at Honesdale, Wayne county.
However, the locomotive, the "Stourbridge Lion," was too heavy for the track and the demonstration was a failure.

In 1830 pig iron production was reported at 165,000 tons, bar iron, 96,621 tons. At this time there were 14 steel furnaces in America with a capacity of 1,600 tons annually.

The first crucible steel was produced in the United States by Garrard Brothers of Cincinnati in 1832, but the company failed in 1837.
Mathias Baldwin, father of the industry bearing his name, built his first locomotive, "Old Ironsides," in 1832, and Peter Schoenberger organized what was later known as the Schoenberger Steel company in Pittsburgh. Rail transportation looked up with the completion of the Allegheny Portage railroad.

The first successful use of coke in an American blast furnace was reported in 1835 by William Firm-percentage of germination in the est research institute located at Mont Alto.

Determines Sowing

The results of this seed testing also assures a forester a base for determining the amount of seed to sow. One-fourth of the seed sown was red pine, also called Norway pine. The wood of red pine compares favorably with that of white pine and many planters prefer red pine because of its freedom from insect and fungus attacks. Red pine plantations are among the most successful of all the forest tree plantations in the state. Other coniferous tree seeds that were sown included white pine, pitch pine, Scotch pine, and hemlock.

White pine was the most valuable softwood tree in the eastern United States, and still continues to be in great demand even though it is attacked by the white pine blister rust.

The hemlock officially became the state tree of Pennsylvania in 1931.
Hemlock is one of the most attractive of all coniferous evergreen trees and grew in dense stands throughout Pennsylvania.

In addition to the amount of coniferous seed, 285 bushels of oak acorns and black walnuts were planted. It takes pine seed from three to six weeks to germinate, while black walnuts require from four to ten weeks.

Woodcock Quits U. S. Service
After 10 Years With Government

Washington, July 14.—After more than ten years in the service of the government Amos W. W. Woodcock, who progressively held the posts of United States attorney for the district of Maryland, director of the national bureau of prohibition and special assistant attorney-general, is retiring to private life.

As he tendered his resignation to Homer S. Cummings, attorney-general, however, he was retained by the department of justice to follow up the New Orleans liquor smuggling cases which developed while he was prohibition director. He had obtained convictions in these long-fought cases but appeals have been entered. Mr. Cummings wanted him to see them through.

Announcement of Mr. Woodcock's retirement from official life through to light the fact that in looking toward the end of his career as enforcer of the dry statutes he had turned author, and before he returns to the private practice of law he expects to complete his book, which will cover his more than ten years in the treasury and justice departments and his duties as a member of the Wickersham investigating committee. One of the objects of this work, it is understood, is to "tell the truth regarding prohibition."

In discussing his departure from the justice department, however, he paid tribute to Mr. Cummings and his conduct of the nation's law office.

Although Mr. Woodcock, a lifelong republican, had been asked by President Roosevelt to remain for an indefinite period at the head of the New York, July 14.—For a year and a half Anthony Drago has been looking for the man who stabbed him in a fight over a woman. Wednesday he came face to face with him in Brooklyn, and shot him dead before a policeman, standing twenty-five feet away, could interfere.

As his victim toppled Drago dropped his gun, turned toward the policeman, and raised his hands over his head.

"I got him!" he shouted. "I got revenge!"

The dead man has been identified as George Vilva. He is believed to have been married and to have lived in Manhattan.

DOCTOR BALKS OPERATION PLOT

Story Reveals Two Kidnapped And One Tortured In Vain To Operate.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14 (AP).—An amazing story of a gang that kidnapped a prominent physician, tried to torture him into operating criminally on another doctor and finally left him drugged in an automobile in the path of an approaching train supplied police with a bizarre mystery today.

The intended victim of the mutilation, Dr. W. H. Herberg, 34, was shot through the ear, knocked insensible and beaten cruelly. A woman who found him by a roadside said he gasped to her: "Go ahead and finish me; you've gone this far."

Both Are Recovering
The other physician, Dr. E. G. Engberg, 44, prominent in church, social and medical circles, escaped death when the train tossed his automobile into a ditch. Both physicians were recovering Wednesday night.

A personal enemy or a disgruntled former patient with a fiendish desire for vengeance was believed by police to have engineered the plot. At last three men participated in it. Both men were lured from their home Tuesday night by fake emergency calls. Dr. Herberg was yet unable to give a clear story of his experience but said he could not identify the assailants.

Threatened to Kill Him
Dr. Engberg told how a man accosted him while he was trying to locate the place to which he had been directed by a telephone call. "The man leaped into my car," he said: "He stuck a gun against my side and warned me that I would not be harmed if I did as he directed. We drove a while and then met a car with other men. They told me that I had to operate on a man. I refused. They threatened to kill me. That is all I remember. The strange affair was revealed after a Duluth-bound passenger train grazed the front end of a car
